Risograph prints

Risograph is an ecological printing technique based on vegetable inks. It allows a handmade quality rendering : the images have a very special grain. The way the ink is deposited on the paper is slightly different from one image to another, giving each copy a unique character.

Fine art prints

«Fine art» is a digital printing process combining pigment based inks and high-quality archival paper. The paper, extra thick, 100% cotton and neutral PH, allows a high definition printing. Pigment inks guarantee a very high color stability over time. Each print is delivered with its certificate of authenticity.

Images to think about

Passionate about narrative image, I like the idea that you can hang an artwork in your home that relates to your personal story. That my drawings lead to reflection, to introspection.

I offer original prints at affordable prices, realized by French laboratories specialized in art edition. The printing techniques and art paper are carefully chosen for a highly qualitative rendering. Numbered and signed, each copy has the value of an artwork.

The risograph technique brings an artisanal, random touch, which transforms drawings into tactile pieces. I also use Fine Art print for the liveliness of pigment inks, and the preciousness that this technique gives to my images, which your clients will keep intact for several generations.

Doriane

Who is Doriane ?

Doriane Millet is a visual artist working on printed image and painting. She is graduated from the illustration section of the Royal Academy of Fine Arts of Brussels and the Duperré school in Paris. Since 2020, she has been self-publishing original prints of her drawings, and working with reseller partners in France, Belgium and Germany. She is the author of Voyage Accompagné, a graphic narration published by la 5ème couche in 2022. She also collaborates with illustration editors, such as Artazart and Les courts tirages. Her painting work was exhibited at the Hybrid'art Contemporary art fair and Le Cabinet d'Ulysse gallery. She lives and works in Marseille.
